SECTION A

Item 1

The Old Testament describes Moses as a very humble man, humbler than anyone else on earth. He was looking after the sheep of his father-in-law Jethro, the priest of Midian. He led them to Sinai, the holy mountain. There the angel of the LORD appeared to him as a flame coming from the middle of a bush. Moses saw that the bush was on fire but not burning up. God called him, "Moses! Moses!" and said, "Do not come any closer. Take off your sandals, because you are standing on holy ground... I have seen how my people are being mistreated in Egypt... Now I am sending you to the king of Egypt so that you can lead my people out of his country." Moses asked for God's name, and God said, "I AM WHO I AM... say to the Israelites, 'I AM has sent me to you.'"

Similarly, Psalm 47 shows that God is the supreme King. It calls all people to clap and shout for joy to Him. It says God is the Highest and should be feared because He is a great King who rules over the whole world. He gives victory to His people, and He is the one who chose a land for them. The psalm says God goes up to His throne with shouts of joy and trumpets, so we should sing praises to Him because He is King over all the earth. He sits on His holy throne and rules over all nations, and even the rulers of the world come together under Him, because He is more powerful than all armies — He rules supreme.

Task:

(a) Examine the attributes of God revealed in the scenario above to inspire modern Christians to remain committed to God.

(b) Analyse the forms of worship among Christians today that are reflected in Psalm 47 above.

Item 2

Under the protections of the Ugandan Constitution, citizens enjoy freedom of worship and the right to establish places of worship. In Mukono town, Pastor Emmanuel founded Living Truth Church with the aim of building a disciplined, morally upright and educated congregation. He emphasised systematic Bible study, ethical living and personal accountability. His well-organised sermons attracted university students, teachers and civil servants who appreciated his logical approach to Christianity.

However, Pastor Emmanuel strongly rejected miracles and charismatic practices, arguing that they distracted Christians from repentance and the message of the cross. He banned members from sharing testimonies about personal miracles, insisting that supernatural experiences were only relevant during the early apostolic age. He also criticised neighbouring churches that conducted healing crusades.

Consequently, church members began doubting God's power to answer prayers, became reluctant to share testimonies and lost confidence in praying for the sick or seeking divine intervention during difficult situations. Instead of evangelising and helping needy families, they spent much of their time debating theological doctrines, criticising other churches and discussing church policies. As a result, Christianity in Living Truth Church increasingly became a matter of intellectual debate and moral rules rather than a living relationship with Christ.

Task:

(a) Examine the significance of miracles in the Gospel of Mark to inform Reverend Emmanuel in the scenario above to carry out an effective evangelistic ministry.

(b) Analyse how the activities of the Early Church Christians contradict those of the Christians presented in the scenario above.

SECTION B

Respond to one item from this section

Item3

In the Old Testament, God commissioned prophets as His spokesmen and custodians of morality. They were sent from various backgrounds to serve as watchmen over Israel. Their message was simple: to call the nation back to the covenant, to condemn idolatry and injustice among the people, to challenge corruption and dishonesty among priests, and to rebuke kings who misused power. They warned that breaking God's law would bring judgment, but also proclaimed that repentance would bring restoration by God's grace.

This prophetic role was seen in the time of King David. David began as a humble shepherd but rose to become a great servant leader. He united the tribes of Israel, made Jerusalem the capital, brought back the Ark of the Covenant, administered justice for all, including the weak like Mephibosheth, and defended his people from enemies, always acknowledging that the kingdom belonged to God.

Later, however, while his army was at war, David abandoned this servant spirit. He stayed in Jerusalem, took Bathsheba, the wife of Uriah who was fighting for him, and arranged Uriah's death. God sent the prophet Nathan, who rebuked him through the parable of the rich man who stole the poor man's only lamb. Prophets faced a lot of challenges as they delivered God's message but persisted.

Task:

(a) Discuss how the challenges faced by prophets of the Old Testament times can guide modern religious leaders when executing their work and mission.

(b) Examine how David's early leadership style in the scenario above can serve as a model to guide modern leaders today on servant leadership

Item 4

25 The leaders are like lions roaring over the animals they have killed. They kill the people, take all the money and property they can get, and by their murders leave many widows. 26 The priests break my law and have no respect for what is holy. They make no distinction between what is holy and what is ordinary. They do not teach the difference between clean and unclean, and they ignore the Sabbath, so that I am insulted by the people of Israel. 27 The government officials are like wolves tearing apart the animals they have killed. King Saul acted like the bad leaders in Ezekiel 22. He used his power like a roaring lion and killed 85 priests to protect his seat. He loved money and kept cows and property he was told to destroy. He broke God's law by doing a priest's work. He blamed his soldiers for his mistake. He visited a witch to get false visions. He made many women become widows. He failed to stand in the gap for his people, so God removed him.

Task:

(a)Discuss the prophetic warnings in the Bible text above to inform modern religious leaders on proper service.

(b) How can King Saul's leadership style in the scenario above guide political leaders today to practice good leadership?
