Item 1

The book of Proverbs teaches about marriage and wealth through the Story of a Noble Wife. A certain woman lived in a small town near the city gate where the elders gathered to judge cases and make important decisions. She was not famous or powerful, but everyone who knew her spoke well of her. Her neighbors wondered: where could you ever find a woman like her? She was worth more than the most expensive rubies you could buy. (Proverbs 31:10). Her husband trusted her completely. He did not worry about the money or the children or the running of the household because he had full confidence in her. Because of her wise work, he never lacked anything of value. Everything in their home was provided for. (Proverbs 31:11). All the days of her life, she brought him good and never harm. She did not wake up one day and decide to be lazy or careless. Day after day, year after year, she worked for the benefit of her family. Her marriage was built on her faithful work. (Proverbs 31:12). She found wool and flax, the raw materials for making cloth, and she worked with eager hands. She did not complain about the work. She enjoyed it. She was skilled with her hands and took pleasure in making things for her family. (Proverbs 31:13). She was like the merchant ships that travel across the sea to bring back good things from far away. She did not just buy whatever was closest or cheapest. She searched for the best food for her family, even if it meant going a long way to get it. (Proverbs 31:14). She woke up while it was still dark outside, long before the sun came up. While others were still sleeping, she was already working. She prepared food for her family and gave out the day's work to her servant girls. She was not lazy. She was the first one up and the last one to bed. (Proverbs 31:15). She looked at a field that was for sale and carefully considered whether it was a good purchase. She did not rush into buying it without thinking. She used her wisdom, and then she bought it. And with money she had earned from her own work, she planted a vineyard. She did not wait for someone else to give her money. She earned it, and then she invested it wisely. (Proverbs 31:16). She set about her work with energy and strength. She did not work a little and then give up. She worked hard, and her arms became strong from all her labor. Her strength came from her work, not from sitting still. (Proverbs 31:17) She saw that her trading was profitable. She did not guess whether she was making money. She knew. She kept track of her business, and she saw that she was gaining, not losing. And because she worked so hard, her lamp stayed on late into the night. She worked while others slept. (Proverbs 31:18). In her hand she held the distaff, and her fingers grasped the spindle. She was skilled at spinning wool and flax into thread and cloth.

These were not easy tasks, but she had mastered them through practice and patience. (Proverbs 31:19).

Item 2

The Parable of the Lost Son describes a family of a father and his two sons who unveils insights about modern families in Uganda. 11 Jesus continued in the Gospel of Luke: "There was a man who had two sons. 12 The younger one said to his father, 'Father, give me my share of the estate.' So, he divided his property between them. 13 "Not long after that, the younger son got together all he had, set off for a distant country and there squandered his wealth in wild living. 14 After he had spent everything, there was a severe famine in that whole country, and he began to be in need. 15 So he went and hired himself out to a citizen of that country, who sent him to his fields to feed pigs. 16 He longed to fill his stomach with the pods that the pigs were eating, but no one gave him anything. 17 "When he came to his senses, he said, 'How many of my father's hired servants have food to spare, and here I am starving to death! 18 I will set out and go back to my father and say to him: Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. 19 I am no longer worthy to be called your son; make me like one of your hired servants.' 20 So he got up and went to his father. "But while he was still a long way off, his father saw him and was filled with compassion for him; he ran to his son, threw his arms around him and kissed him. 21 "The son said to him, 'Father, I have sinned against heaven and against you. I am no longer worthy to be called your son.'22 "But the father said to his servants, 'Quick! Bring the best robe and put it on him. Put a ring on his finger and sandals on his feet. 23 Bring the fattened calf and kill it. Let's have a feast and celebrate. 24 For this son of mine was dead and is alive again; he was lost and is found.' So, they began to celebrate. 25 Meanwhile, the older son was in the field. When he came near the house, he heard music and dancing. 26 So he called one of the servants and asked him what was going on. 27 'Your brother has come,' he replied, 'and your father has killed the fattened calf because he has him back safe and sound.' 28 "The older brother became angry and refused to go in. So, his father went out and pleaded with him. 29 But he answered his father, 'Look! All these years I've been slaving for you and never disobeyed your orders.

Yet you never gave me even a young goat so I could celebrate with my friends. 30 But when this son of yours who has squandered your property with prostitutes comes home, you kill the fattened calf for him!' 31 "'My son,' the father said, 'you're always with me, and everything I have is yours. 32 But we had to celebrate and be glad, because this brother of yours was dead.

Item 3

For many years, the people of Kanyama District were known for their unity and peaceful coexistence. However, this began to change when a series of disputes over land, business ownership, and theft cases emerged in the community. Many residents complained that cases reported to local authorities took too long to be resolved. Some individuals with influence and wealth often appeared to receive favorable treatment, while ordinary citizens felt ignored. As frustration grew, several victims stopped reporting their grievances through official channels. Instead, some community members began settling disputes through groups of relatives and friends, while others publicly accused suspected offenders without sufficient evidence. In one incident, a young man suspected of stealing livestock was severely beaten by an angry crowd before investigations could be completed. Later, conflicting accounts emerged regarding what had actually happened. The increasing mistrust led to divisions among residents. Local leaders, religious leaders, youth representatives, and elders organized a community dialogue to discuss the growing tensions. During the meeting, some participants argued that the community needed greater transparency and accountability from those responsible for handling disputes. Others suggested educating citizens about their rights and responsibilities, while some proposed involving respected mediators to help resolve conflicts peacefully. Several victims also requested opportunities for individuals involved in past injustices to openly acknowledge the truth and seek reconciliation with affected families.

The meeting ended with a commitment from different stakeholders to find lasting solutions that would restore confidence, promote justice, and rebuild peaceful relationships within the district.

Tasks

(a*) Examine the biblical teaching on justice to guide the people of Kanyama to restore their peaceful co-existence.*

(b) Analyze contemporary approaches to be exploited in order to restore trust in the judicial system as guided by the scenario above.

Item 4

The community of Nambale was once known for cooperation and collective development. Recently, however, disagreements arose after reports that some influential leaders were allocating community resources to a few favored groups while neglecting others. Several families lost access to essential services, and complaints raised by affected residents were ignored.

As frustration grew, some youth organized demonstrations that later resulted in the destruction of public property and attacks on people suspected of supporting the local authorities. In response, security personnel arrested several residents without proper investigations, while community leaders remained unwilling to listen to opposing views. Fear, mistrust, and division gradually spread throughout the community, affecting schools, businesses, and social relationships.

A group of concerned citizens has called upon community members to reflect on their responsibilities towards their nation and fellow citizens while seeking lasting solutions to the growing tensions.

Task

(a)Examine the biblical teaching on peace to promote a harmonious co-existence among the people in Nambale community.

(b)Analyze the international legal frameworks that should be applied to address the injustices in Nambale community.
